

“Urban Planning: Addressing Gender and Race Inequalities”

Thursday, 19 September 2019, 11:00 – 12:30

Biennale Foundation, São Paulo, Brazil

Urban Planning: Addressing Gender and Race Inequalities

Venue: Biennale Foundation, Plenary B

11:00 – 12:30

Despite the advances in regulations and tools related to the local urban planning process, gender and race differences are not yet an analysis category when it comes to building public policy. It is not taken into account, for example, that women spend longer time in public transportation than men or that afro descendants die more than non- afro descendants in homicide rates. Investigating how these issues occur in the cities and how they can be addressed in public planning and management is paramount.

1. Urban planning addressing gender and race inequalities I
Maitreyi Bordia Das, Practice Manager and Global Lead, Social Inclusion, The World Bank
2. Urban planning addressing gender and race inequalities II
Paula Freire Santoro, Professor at Faculdade de Arquitetura e Urbanismo da Universidade de São Paulo, Coordinate LabCidadeFAUUSP, hasfunding FAPESP
3. Planejamento urbano: enfrentando desigualdades de gênero e raça
Tauá Lourenço Pires, Oxfam Brasil

Visit the blog on the event's page (Portuguese)